Assistance into safe and supportive living arrangements residential, supportive, structured

A reminder of the good ideas from the Nov 12 meeting at the Overlook

CRISIS RESPONSE

- Non-police intervention
- Harm reduction (eg. Indiana Recovery Alliance)
- Mobile crisis response (eg. Peer support, EMT, Social work van)
- Redirect mental health crisis calls to 988 instead of 911
- Support STRIDE center
- Transparency
- More people in specialist roles (eg. mediation, peer supports)
- Neighborhood organizing
- Disarm police and mandating non-handcuff arrests

HEALTH CARE

- Free downtown emergency care
- County Health Detox with further programming
- More access to healthcare providers, including mental health - increasing choice
- Alternative pain management
- Mindful movement (eg. yoga, exercise, breathing)
- Spiritual & emotional care (eg. education, therapeutic resources)
- HealthNet: Access, integration, and clear communication
- Reduce Insurance issues (eg. Barriers to getting insured, addressing gaps in insurance or people who are under-insured)
- Addiction harm reduction
- Abundant, accessible, affordable therapy
- Legalize cannabis as options for alternative pain management

HOUSING

- Sober living
- Affordable, low-barrier Housing
- Rental assistance fund
- More supportive reintegrative housing- offer a spectrum of options to meet peoples' needs
- Tenant protections (eg. limits on rent increases)
- Pathways and institutional support to home ownership
- More funding for Courage to Change etc.
- Post felony landlord education
- First-time homeowner grants

The Year is 1968

Katzenbach Commission in 1967

The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice was a group of 19 people appointed by President Johnson in 1967 to study the American criminal justice system. Johnson assigned the group the task of fighting crime and repairing the American criminal justice system:

No agency of government has ever in our history undertaken to probe so fully and deeply into the problems of crime in our nation. I do not underestimate the difficulty of the assignment. But the very difficulty which these problems present and the staggering cost of inaction make it imperative that this task be undertaken.

— President Lyndon Johnson [1]

The Commission's final report was issued in 1967 [2] has been described as "the most comprehensive evaluation of crime and crime control in the United States at the time". [3] It laid out reorganization plans for police departments [4] and suggested a range of reforms. [5] Several of the Commission's findings related to the poor treatment of juvenile offenders. [6]

ENTRY

Person is reported for criminal act.

A crime is behavior that is punishable as a public offense. The elements of a crime generally come from statutes, but may also be supplied by the common law in states where the criminal common law still carries force.

Local History

- Centerstone was working with the Monroe County representatives to setup the Stride location with the Stride Coalition on property purchased in 2018 which also houses a secured parking facility. Probation was moved to it's currently location. Both of these places are now located next to the courts, the jail and the community services available.
- Also purchased at that time was additional land at 615 S Adams portions of which had been developed into a Youth Shelter and Binkley House which serves as emergency housing for children (voluntary and not), which are without violent histories and without substance abuse disorders.
- Pathways program - developed and provided direct support of an “Interventionist” around this time. Dated material but still available at <https://bloomington.in.gov/sites/default/files/2018-09/Resource%20Guide%20-Substance%20Use%20Disorder.pdf> (Image above)
- The Fullerton Pike Phase II was in place.
- in 2018 a Commission on Affordable Housing was formed by Ordinance.

Centerstone will run daily operations of facility that aims to help people with substance use disorder stay out of jail or hospital

The Stride Coalition – a group of public, private, and nonprofit organizations in Monroe County, Indiana, that Centerstone helped form in 2017 – is preparing to open a new 24-hour crisis diversion center in downtown Bloomington to better help those with substance abuse disorder.

"One of the critical problems identified by the coalition was the lack of a place to take someone in crisis that isn't jail or the hospital. Neither option is helpful to the individual, and both drain public resources," said Linda Grove-Paul, vice president of Adult Services at Centerstone. "People in crisis often need something as simple as a hot meal and a safe place with trained professionals available for support."

Centerstone will run the daily operations for the center when it opens in spring 2020.

three years.

"We're just going to focus on that person who needs help and what are the best ways that we can organize ourselves to ensure that person has the best possible chance to move forward and reach their full potential," said Pete Yonkman, president of Cook Medical and Cook Group, another founding member of the coalition.
